

Self-development Plan

See what's possible and create it • Develop the best team ever •

What are you trying to achieve?

List a strength to continue to develop and/or an opportunity for improvement.

Why?

What would be better if you are successful? Consider the benefits to yourself, the organization, and your team.

What actions will you take?

Identify steps you can take on a frequent and regular basis, people who can help you and when you will reflect up on this in your daily work.

• Be a uniter • Be open and embrace the uniqueness of others •

Be Trustworthy • Communicate, Collaborate and commit to change •

Own what happens • Be kind and caring • Be relentlessly curious • Be known for doing what's right •

Self-development Plan

See what's possible and create it • Develop the best team ever • Be a writer • Be open and embrace the uniqueness of others • Be Trustworthy • Communicate, Collaborate and commit to change •

What are you trying to achieve?

List a strength to continue to develop and/or an opportunity for improvement.

1 Start with strengths. Often we make our greatest impact by continuing to grow something we already do well.

2 Or, choose an area to improve that is impacting your success.

Why?

What would be better if you are successful? Consider the benefits to yourself, the organization, and your team.

3 Staying grounded in why this is important helps you set priorities, choose activities and know when something needs to change.

What actions will you take?

Identify steps you can take on a frequent and regular basis, people who can help you and when you will reflect up on this in your daily work.

4 Make a plan.

- Choose specific action items that you can make part of your standard work.
- Need ideas? Reference the Self-development Activities Guide and the Learning & Development Opportunities resource.

Own what happens • Be kind and caring • Be relentlessly curious • Be known for doing what's right •